Instructional Technology and Library Services

Instructional Technology remains focused on providing staff development designed to build teacher capacity to fully employ technology in the instructional process. Library services staff development is designed to meet the needs of district librarians and to provide teachers instruction with regard to resources offered through district libraries. Staff development sessions offered provide teachers, librarians, and administrators with the opportunity to learn more about specific tools and about using technology in the classroom. In addition to the staff development sessions offered throughout the year, we remain committed to meeting the expressed needs of teachers and campuses through just-in-time staff development. Campus trainings are tailored to meet the specific needs of teachers on those campuses.
